Pulpit Flowers.

BY WILLIAM C. RICHARDS.

I love the flowers. I love their tints and graces,
Their radiant beauty, and their odors sweet;
And everywhere I look on their bright faces,
I hold their presence sweet.

Poor is the home, though grand, that has no garden,
When Spring's first breath in the pale snow-drop blows;
And when the perfect June to its fair warden
Pays fief in blushing rose.

Dear to my sight are blossoms on love's alter.
That drop their fragrance on the timid bride—
White seals of faith, too strong and pure to falter,
Whatever lot betide.

Nor welcome less pale flowers before the chancel
That quivering hands upon the coffin spread,
Where their celestial beauty seems to cancel
The dust-doom of the dead.

Oh, beautiful alike in joy and sadness,
To crown the pallid bride of Love or Death;
Earth has no gloom beyond the spell of gladness
In their dear bloom and breath.

And so my heart falls not out with the fashion
That lifts the rose and lily to the place
Where reverent eyes gaze dimly on Christ's passion,
And faint hearts seek Christ's grace.

On either side the consecrated preacher—
Like priests of old that Moses' hands sustained—
These pulpit flowers recall the perfect Teacher,
By his own hand ordained.

With tearful eyes the lilies I consider,
Sweet symbols of my Father's love for me,
That make the world beside a false vain bidder
My end and crown to be.

The odors that are poured from each rare chalice
My ardent soul makes incense clouds, that rise
Beneath my prayers up to the King's fair palace,
In heavens unfathomed skies.

Each perfect crest and crown of floral beauty,
By faith translated to my soul, becomes
A blossom on the baren road of duty,
And covers it with blooms.

And if, than empty speech, I choose them rather,
Their sweet, dumb lips of eloquence shall speak;
And from the lilies of my Lord I'll gather
Sweet lessons for His sake.

So, for the pulpit flowers that bloom on Sunday,
To whose sweet thought provides them, thanks and love:
I pray their hands twine brighter garlands one day,
In praise above.

The Colored Educational Mass Meeting at Woodville.

To the Editor of the North Carolinian:

Perhaps your readers would be interested by a brief account of the speeches made at the Educational Mass Meeting in Woodville on the 23d ulto.

As the meeting was held in the open air there was no formal organization. Richard Sumner Esq., Chairman of the Committee on invitations, performing the duty of introducing the speakers. Walter F. Pool Esq., was the first to take the stand. His subject was the contest between the effects of ignorance and knowledge on national and judicial character and prosperity. He began by expressing his surprise and gratification at the eagerness displayed by the colord race for tth acquisition of knowledge. This was an evidence of their wisdom and a good augury for their future. They did well to appreciate the fact that in this age, the ignorant man was "a mere machine—a thing of wood and brass, of springs and pulleys and levers" and might be deceived by the man of knowledge at pleasure. He spoke at some length of the pecuniary benefits of education, and gave some statistics from which he deduced among other things, that if all the illiterate in the United States were educated the public revenue would annually be increased by a sum sufficient to make "a safe of money long enough to girdle all our mountains, bridge all our rivers, and festoon every pine tree in North Carolina with greenback dollars.' As illustrating the wonderful influence of knowledge on National prosperity, he cited the kingdom of Prussia, which had, he said, by establishing the best system of common schools in the world, quadrupled her treasury and raised herself from a position of insignificance to the first rank among the powers of Europe, in the short space of twenty-five years. He concluded by giving the colored people some practical advice—exhorting them to rely entirely upon themselves in their efforts to obtain an education—to reflect on the time they had lost, and use frugally that which was left them, for said he "I believe the time is coming when wisdom and learning alone will be the criteria of honor in the land." This is only an imperfect abstract of the speech, not even embracing the general scope of it.

Judge C. C. Pool was the next speaker. He said he was glad to see his colored friends manifesting so great an interest in the cause of education. A desire for knowledge was wisely planted by the Creator in the heart of every human being. Satan knew this, for when he entered Eden and seduced our first mother, he offered her knowledge as the result of eating the forbidden fruit. He said that with the new privileges that had been conferred upon them, new duties also had been imposed. Among them was the duty of knowing how to make an intelligent and proper use of the elective franchise. He called to their attention the fact that so few colored votes had been cast at the late election upon the question of ratification or rejection of the proposed amendments to the constitution. Yet these amendments involved great changes in the fundamental law of the State—changes in which every citizen ought to feel the deepest interest. They did not vote because they did not have sufficient education to understand the issues involved. They ought to prepare themselves by careful study to become good citizens and worthy men. He said that knowledge was power. This position he illustrated by a timely anecdote. The colored people could not retain the power they now have, much less gain additional power unless by diligent and close attention to books they keep pace in learning with their white neighbors. He said that while a man was never too old to learn, yet it should be their chief aim to educate the young. They would thus prepare the way for making them occupy a higher position in life than the present generation could even hope to acquire. The Judge's speech was well received, and was calculated to do much good. This report fails to do it justice. The Chairman then introduced Frank Winslow Esq., who made a humorous speech in which he delivered a brilliant eulogy on the multiplication table, and gave some good advice on the cultivation of cotton. His remarks elicited considerable merriment. Letters were then read from Dr. P. John, Dr. R. K. Speed, C. W. Grandy Jr., J. Q. A. Wood Esq. and others. The meeting adjourned with three rousing cheers for the speaker and the cause of education.

The following letter is published by request:

OFFICE OF NORTH CAROLINIAN,
Eliz. City, N. C., Aug. 21, 1873.

To the Commitee of Invitation:

Your kind letter inviting me to address a Mass Meeting of Colored people at Woodville on the 23rd has been received. Up to yesterday, I had tully expected to be with you. An unexpected business engagement will now make it impossible. I had proposed speaking upon that phase of the educational question bearing upon the working class—that part of the community by whose nerve and sinue the triumphs of labor are achieved.

Here in the South your race comprize the larger portion of the laboring class, and I intended to show that it is only by education that your social condition can be improved and your calling elevated to its true dignity. So great is the disposition to rank the social standing of a man according to the level of his occupation that society is slow to recognize them when individual exceptions do occur in favor of intelligence; but it is equally true that almost every occupation stands in public estimation just where it is placed by the aggregate amount of intelligence it employs. If we would see the desired result effected and labor assert its proper dignity, we must place within its reach the means of its own regeneration by extending to all, the colored as well as the white, the means of a more liberal education.

And this is a question in which the employer as well as the laborer is interested, for the advantages education confers on labor do not accrue to the laborer alone. The employer is equally benefitted. He gains much by an economy of time, in making his capital more active. And I insist that property is interested in education and that there is no measure of State policy by which capital can better protect itself than by contributing to the support and maintainance of a system of public Free Schools. Said a distinguished statesman: "There is no farm, no bank, no mill, no shop—unless it be a grogshop—which is not more valuable and more profitable to its owners, if located among a well educated, than if surrounded by an ignorant population. Simply as a matter of interest we hold it to be the duty of property to itself to provide education for all.

I am glad to see the interest taken by the colored people in the cause of Education. It augures happily for you as well as for the best interests of the State, and be assured that no aid or influence at my command to further your efforts will be withheld.

Yours Respectfully
P. JOHN.

Miscellaneous.

A Visitors Account of White Sulphur Springs.

There are a great many interesting things to be seen in West Virginia, of which your space will not permit a detailed description. The most interesting specimen of natural beauty that I saw was about twenty years old, with dovelike eyes and gaiter boots. She was going to the White Sulphur Springs. She told me to stop there. She looked with a pitying eye upon me, as one who had lived in vain, when I told her I had never been there. She said I had a pleasure in reserve such as imagination would vainly strive to picture. She said it was paradise. I reflected. I remembered that Adam, however, was snaked out of Paradise, and that she, on the contrary, only wanted to "take me in." Then I thought of old Xerxes, who "offered a reward to those who would invent him a new pleasure." I reflected that all this was to be had for $3 50 per day, U. S. currency—"see small bills"—and I determined to stop, and I did stop.

The resemblance to Paradise, except so far as it was made such by the charmer who had beguiled me thither, was not striking. The mode of entrance was not suggestive of Paradise. It was in a rickety old omnibus, sold by somebody who had no further use for it, drawn by two decrepid old mules that could only be got to switch their tails under an application of the lash that would have drawn tears from the eyes of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to animals; and a fallen angel, who looked like Lucifer, son of the morning, stood bawling for quarter, which we had to give him before we were permitted to enter the celestial gates. Then, too, although a bath and a clean hide were indispensible prerequisites to the enjoyment of paradisical bliss, we were compelled to wrap the drapery of our railroad dirt about us and lie down to dream rather of the other place than paradise. I suppose this was to heighten our enjoyment and reconcile us to the price charged for it when we did get it the next day. For which let us be duly thaukful. Nor was the style of the "mansions of bliss" particularly suggestive of Paradise. They consist of one monster building of original ugliness, located right in the wrong place, and surrounded by many mansions only less ugly because there is not so much of them, in which all styles of architecture are exhibited that ever obtained anywhere, and some that certainly never did: Doric, Ionic, Venetian, Tuscan, Composite, Gothic and Saxon, strangely and grotesquely mixed and intermingled, and over all which the African style plainly predominates. The serenity of mind necessary to perfect enjoyment was also disturbed by the unpleasant discovery that the $3.50 per day was like the admission to a religious fair, paid for entrance merely, and that once inside we were compelled to pay for everything we wantod. These little "onpleasantnesses." with tough steaks and weak coffee, speedily disenchanted us and dispelled the illusions with which fancy had invested this garden of the gods.—Cor. Capital.

An Enterprising Coroner.

Butcher when we know him was Corner up in Williamsport. Business that winter was dreadful dull. Nobody died suddenly or was drowned, or murdered, and Butcher not only had nothing to do, but he made no fees, and was poor as Walt Whitman's poetry. Suddenly a mania for committing suicide by poison seemed to break out among the people. Mrs. Brown fed herself with strychnine; both the Smith girls stuffed themselves with arsenic; Aleck Jones took a dose of laudanum; Johnson's colord girl swallowed some bug poison, and Mrs. Murppy's little son ate four boxes of phosphorous matches. These tragic events occurred at intervals of a few days, and in each case no sooner were the facts discovered than Dr. Bumm was at once on hand with his stomach pump. He empted Mrs. Brown all of a sudden; he pumped out the Smith girls; he tore the laudnum out of Jones; he separated the poison from the colored girl, and he nearly turned Mrs. Murphy's boy wrong side out. All of them recovered. The coroner viewed these proceedings with regret. He went to Bumm and suggested that he would give $100 if the doctor would close out his pump, and $50 more if he would go out of town for three or four weeks. The coroner said he did not wish to seem importunate or obtrusive, but was tired of having doctors meddle with his business. Then Dr. Bumm affirmed that he would not only not sell and not leave town, but when the next poisoning case occurred he would buy a steam engine, attach it to the machine, and pump the patient throught the unending ages of all eternity if he wanted to. That night Butcher bribed the doctor's boy to bring him the pump for a few minutes. Then he rubbed some nitro glycerin around the end of the piston and sent it back. The next day Mary Jane M'Guire took oxalic acid. The doctor came; he inserted the aparatus down her throat and plunged the piston down. A snap, a shriek, a loud explosion, and Mary Jane, oh! where was she? Forty-seven pieces of her were found, and they picked up twelve fragments of the doctor, so the coroner had a chance for fifty-nine inquests, the fees of which enabled him to buy a barrel of flour, get his wagon fixed, and give his wife a pink silk dress. He was the most enterprising coroner they had in Williamsport.—Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post.

A House Built in a Day.

The newspapers of Lancaster, Pennsylvania, publish an account of the building of a brick dwelling house in that city in ten and a half hours, the material having beee prepared and collected on the site previous to the commensement. The house is twenty-five by thirty on the ground floor, two stories in hight and contains eight rooms. There were in all upward of one hundred workmen employed. The cellar foundation was already laid and at precisely six o'clock Friday morning the men went to work. The Examiner thus descrines the labor:

"Mr. J. T. Reading, photographer, was present with his aparatus, and took views every fifteen minutes of the building and the workmen while in motion, which, of course, produced some ridiculous pictures—men, white and colored, in almost every position, are to be seen represented. At 8 o'clock A. M. the structure was advanced to the highth of one story, with two floors—ground and second—laid, partitions in, and lathed and partly plastered, doors hung, stairways up, and a view taken with the doctor in the midst of his workmen. The scene is a busy and comic one—the bricklayers erecting scaffolding for the second story, 10 o'clock A. M., view taken of the western front on Prince street; second story brick work two-thirds up with carpenters ready to lay floor, and plasterers commence lathing; western front painted and penciled of first story, and masons run short of brick, and some delay in consequence, but it was remedied in a short while.

11 o'clock A. M., the bricklayers are up to square of ceiling for third floor, with corners raised to about the hight required to receive the rafters for roofing. Tinners waiting. The process of white coating is now about completed in the first story 11. 18 A. M., first rafter for the roof was laid. At 12. 11 the last brick was placed upon the chimneys, and the bricklayers are done. Roof sheathed and tinners begin to lay roofing. 12.50 scaffolding all removed from building. 2.30 P. M., sash in windows of first story and painters finished up; washerboards down and rubbish cleared away. At this writing the tinners are leaving the building; roofing and spouting completed. The building has been insured, and in the course of a few hours will be ready for a tenant."

Courtship and Marriage.

There was much more than a mere witticism in the remark of the old bachelor who paid attentions to a maiden lady for twenty years, visiting her regularly every night, when rallied for not marrying: "If I were married I should have nobody to court, and no place to go at night." He had deeply felt the contrast between his own delicate and ethereal enjoyments, and the hard, discontented, fretted life of too many married people, and his answer was irony. He saw there was something in courtship which too often exhales and expires after marriage, leaving a cold, dull, monotonous burden where all was beauty and buoyancy before.

Let us see what that something is: In courtship nothing is taken for granted. Both parties are put on their good behavior. Love keeps itself fresh and active by constant expression in word and act. But strange to say, courting usually ends with marriage. Very soon both parties yield to the sense of possession, and the feeling of security robs galeantry of its motive and extracts the poetry from the mind. The beautiful attentions that were so pleasing before marriage, are too often forgotten afterwards; the music dies out of the voice, everything is taken for granted, and the love that, like the silver let of the fountain, leaped to heaven, denied its natural outlet, ceases to flow altogether. Then comes dull, heavy, hard days, with two unhapily tied together and wishing themselves apart, and not always content with merely wishing.

This is unnatural and wrong. What marriage wants to give it new tone and and sweetness, is more of the manner as well as the spirit of courtship which comes from the constant attention of the parties to each other. Their affection voices itself in all possible ways—every sentence is edged with compliment and spoken in tender tones. Every look is a confession. Every act is a new word in the vocabulary of love. Kiss and caress are parenthetic clauses and gestures in the dialect of love; gifts and sacrifices are the most emphatic expressions of the spirit no langnage can fully articulate and no devotion can declare. And it is the fact that affection confesses, itself continually in look and word and act, making the voice musical and the fingers poetic in their touch and doing that makes experience so beautiful, the only Eden many a woman has on earth.

Love must have expression or it will die. It can be kept forever beautiful and blessed, as at the first, by giving it constant utterance in word and act. The more it is allowed to flow on in delicate attention and noble service, the stronger and more satisfying and more blessed it will be. The house becomes home only when love drops its heavenly manna in it every day, and the true marriage vow is made not once for all at the altar, but by loving words, and hopeful service, and delicate attentions to the end.

Women Cowhiding each other's Husbands.

Messrs. Harrison & Camp have been partners in a small jewelry business on the south side of fifth street, west of Walnut. They have lately had a little business misunderstanding, in which Mrs. Comp has seen fit to take an active part, much to the disgust of Mr. Harrison, whose idea was that he and his partner could settle their business affairs without the interference of the ladies. Mrs. Camp, a large, stout woman, took acceptions to some remarks of disaprobation of her course that Mr. Harrison made, and determined to be revenged. She purchased a rawhide, and yesterday noon, meeting Mr. Harrison on Fifth street, near the store, proceeded to play it over his head, cutting him twice with it. Mr. Harrison managed to wrest the whip from the infuriated woman, and then, deeply mortified at the occurrence, went to his rooms near by, and informed his wife of what had occurred. Mrs. Harrison asked him why he did not knock the woman down. He remarked that such a course wouldn't have answered Mrs. Harrison then made up her mind in a twinkling. She'd get even. She hastily doned her hat, took the whip, and started for the store. There she found Camp, and then and there proceeded to give him a beautiful flogging. She is a little woman but evidently full of vim and determination, for she laid the lash over Mr. Camp's shoulders so vigorously that he was forced to retreat to a hallway, raise a chair to throw off the licks, and yell, "Take her away, take her away.' Mrs. Harrison allowed herself to be taken away when she considered himself completely even.—Cincinnati Commercial.

The Southern says the sale of the Williamston & Tarboro R. R. took place under proceedings in bankruptcy last Tuesday. The first sale made was the shares of the North Carolina stockholders, amounting to about twenty thousaud ($20, 000) dollars. This was knocked off to Henry D. Robeson, Esq,. for one dollar. The Norfolk stock of about six thousand ($6, 000) dollars was then put up, and purchased by Mr. Burton Harrison for eleven dollars. The sale of the railroad then took place. This included the iron already laid, about eight miles in length, road bed right of way, town lots, railroad bridge and everything pertaining to the line. But one bid was made, namely: fifty dollars in cash and one hundred and twelve thousand dollars in mortgage bonds. The purchaser was Mr. Herman Kobbe, of the city of New York. Some other small personal property was sold. And so ends the long contested struggle, and to the satisfaction of those most interested. We have it from the best authority that he purchaser or purchasers intend to build the road at once if they can obtain the assistance and co-operation of the people along the line. This, we have no hesitation in saying, they will heartily receive.

A Common Mistake.

It strikes the most of persons, when they first sit down to a Sewing Machine, that it is so complicated they will never be able to learn its operation. This is true of many machines, but a single day's use of the "New Howe Machine," with the instruction that is easily obtained, will enable any lady to make a good beginning, and a few days' practice will make it a pleasant employment. Of course in this, as in any other work, practice is needful to reach perfection. Sewing with the needle in the fingers is not learned in a day, and years are required to become an expert. But a few weeks' use of the New Howe Sewing Machine will enable any lady to do all her plain sewing, and to do it well, and soon her fine sewing with far more success than with her needle, and leave her plenty of time for everything else she may have on hand. Call and see these world-renowned Machines, or take one on trial of F. L. KURTZ Hertford & Elizabeth City.

Ex-Governor Palmer, of Illinois, in a recent speech before a farmers' meeting, urged that there was no necessity for any further legislation in regard to railways. He took the ground that the Dartmouth College decision is the law of the land, and cannot be upset short of upsetting or amending the Constitution; that railroad charters are contracts between the corporators and the State, and cannot be amended in any material respect without the consent of the coporators; that railroad companies are common carriers, and are subject to the obligations imposed by the common law; that the common law is ample in its powers to correct all abuses of railroad and other carriers, if enforced: and, finally, that we have more laws on the statute book, additional to the common law, than we can enforce.

A WORD IN SEASON

It is generally conceded that the Republican Party continues to stand high in public estimation. The reason for this is, it has justified by its acts the confidence of the people. It has stood the test of more than twelve years of power, and during that time has given birth to measures that have added largely to the strength, wealth and influence of the Republic. Since the foundation of the Government no party has been called upon to stand a strain as severe as the one put upon the Republican party. Both its legislative and executive branches have been called upon to face difficulties almost insurmountable; yet with a firm and patriotic hand, it guided the nation through its troubles, and to-day it enjoys the reward due its services—the continued confidence and support of the people.

To retain this support and to gain the active sympathy of the thousands of young men who are yearly becoming entrusted with the privilege of voting, our party must put forward its very best men for office. We need something more than ability in our public officials; we need sterling honesty to make and administer our laws. Our party should steer clear of political tricksters, for the election of one of these slippery demagogues will more than offset the good that a dozen worthy officials can do. The honest, intelligent, and patriotic citizens should attend the local conventions and primary meetings. By this the practical good men will be selected and the party strengthened. The surest way to purify the ballot is to place none but worthy men in nomination.

Our principles are right; the purposes of our party are commendable; it now remains for the people to see that the right men are selected to maintain our principles and carry out our objects.

BRICK POMEROY IN TEXAS.

There is no question but that with all his recklessness in statement "BRICK POMEROY" occasionally forces upon his Democratic friends some plain and homely truths. He has recently made a visit to Texas. At different points he made addresses. At Houstin, among many other things he said:

"One year ago I differed with you regarding Mr. Greeley. He was the bait set by the bondholders of the land to trap you. You took the bait, and fell into the trap. I wanted no Radical; but one who had proven by his acts his allegiance to truth and integrity and the principles of Democracy. I refused to support him and you denounced me. I believed it to be as impossible for the principles of Democracy to triumph by the election of Greeley as it would have been for you to secure wedded bliss by courting a lady for five, ten, or fifteen years, and then popping the question to the hired girl of your neighbor across the way. * * * * *

"He then alluded to the Republicans of Texas who were distinguished for their enterprise, and honored for their worth. The North has many of such, and Texas would be glad to see more of them, (alluding to Sumner, Randolph, and Goode of Sherman.) He said may you have 25,000 more like them. While they will aid you financially they will not hurt you politically, and we can well spare them in the North. He here paid Houston a high compliment as being the liveliest and most enterprising city in Texas. [Here a voice inquired; 'What has the Northern men done for Texas?'] Pomeroy replied, 'taken the weeds out of your fence corners, raised vegetables, planted fruit trees, built your largest and best houses, imported your finest breed of horses, and cattle, erected nearly every machine shop, foundry and mill that you have among you. They have minded their own business, and have not disturbed a large audience by asking foolish questions. They have striven by honest industry to keep out of the sheriff's hands and thirty feet ahead of the tax collector.'"

THE POLITICAL OUTLOOK IN IOWA.

The political prospect in Iowa is certainly very favorable for the Republicans. They have placed an unexceptional ticket in the field, while the opposing elements have united upon a ticket called "Anti-Monopoly." We are beginning to conclude that the Democratic party is being killed "intirely" by too much name. Democratic, Conservative, Democratic Conservative, White man's party, Liberals, Liberal Democratic, Democratic Liberal, Anti-Monopoly, etc.,—these are only a few of the many disguises by which the same sly old dogs are trying to steal into Uncle Sam's back kitchen

There are those who think it is not a new name that they need, but more honesty of purpose and better principles. But if they think—the old Poet to the contrary notwithstanding—that a rose would smell differently if called by another name, a few years more in sack cloth and ashes will, perhaps, bring them to a new revelation.

The Raleigh News comes to us in a new dress and a little enlarged in size. It is a live daily paper, and, barring its politics, ought to succeed.

THE DEATH OF GENL. BARRINGER

Hon. DANIEL MOREAU BARRINGER died at the White Sulphur Springs in Va., after a protracted illness, on the 1st inst. He was born in Cabarras County, N. C., and was graduated at the University of North Carolina in 1826. He selected the law as a profession, and began to practice in 1829. In that year he was elected a member of the State Legislature in which he continued for a number of years. He was a member of the Convention which met in 1835 to amend the State Convention, and also represented the State in Congress from 1843 to 1849. In the latter year he was appointed Minister to Spain by President Taylor. He was continued in that mission by President Fillmore, but resigned after serving four years. He then traveled extensively in Europe, and on his return home was elected to the State Legislatnre. In 1855 he declined a reelection, retired to private life, and devoted himself to literary studies and pursuits. Mr. Barringer was elected a delegate to the Peace Congress of 1861, and also to the Philadelphia National Union Convention in 1866.

The political contest in Ohio is getting warmed up. There are three parties in the field: the Republican, Democratic, and the "No name" party though it is not likely that the latter will receive 10,000 votes in the State. The Republican State ticket seems perfectly safe, and the entire contest hinges upon the legislative ticket

The Reverend Dr. GARDINER SPRING died in New York City on the 18th of August, in the 89th year of his age, after a pastorate of 53 years in the Brick Church. He was one of the chaplains of the revolutionary army, was present at the attack on Quebeck in 1777, and carried Aaron Burr when wounded, off the field in his arms.

In our old mother State, Pennsylvania, the Republicans have placed an excellent State ticket in the field, and the Democrats appear to be so hopeless that it almost looks as though they were going to let the election go by default.

The editor of Rowell's American Newspaper Reporter says that the first paper published in this State appeared in Raleigh in 1799 and was called the Register. It was founded by JOSEPH GILES.

"BEAU" HICKMAN a man who has long figured as an eccentric character at the National capital is dead. He acted on the theory that the "world owed him a living" and in his peculiar way he always got it. He died with paralysis.

Frequent inquiries are still recieved at the Treasury Department as to whether the pennies coined in 1857 and 1858 are redeemed at or are worth more than one cent. To such enquiries the answer of the Treasurer invariably is that the cents in question are redeemed at the Mint at their face value, and are intrinsically worth considerably less than that.

Miss Anna E. Dickinson recently rode to the top of Pike's Peak, accompanied by Mr. E. S. Nettleton, chief engineer of the Rio Grande Railway land department her brother, the Rev. There is somthing vigorous, if not pathetic in this obituary of Ohio Hermaphodites, which we find in a Georgia paper: "The sickly weakly, unpromising little bantling, born through some sort of mysterious political convulsion; a Hermaphodite—neither Democratic nor Republican—christened the "Peoples party" as a political deception and fraud: a kind of mougrel monstrosity of doutful species and paternity has about 'played out.' The thing gave a few convulsive jerks after birth, quivered a little thoroughout its disordered nervous system and has gasped its last after a few terrible throes that succeed the horrors of abortion."

Thomas Maguir, a remarkubly precocious Boston boy, was last week sent to the Tewksbury Reform School, there to stay during his minority. He is only eight years old, and attained his majority in sin and iniquity long ago. When only five years old he broke into a shop and rifled the till. After this he achieved a brilliant reputation as a pickpocket. He speedily rose however, to the dignity of highway robbery; for, meeting a smaller boy on the street who had a little money in his pocket, he with force and arms appropriated the same. For thirteen years his career will now be suspended, and his extraordinory abilities lost to the world.

Gen John C. Breckinridge spent a few days at Long Branch last week. He called as a matter of personal courtesy on President Grant, whom he had not seen since the Mexican war, where they were fellow officers, and very intimate. Although Gen Breckinridge has been frequently in Washington since the close of the war, he did not think it would be delicate for him to visit the President in the Executive Mansion. He was accompanied to the President's cottage by Mr. John Hoey, and spent a portion of the evening in very agreeable conversation. Senator Frelinghuysen was present, and others dropped in during the evening to pay their respects. No allusion whatever was made to the late war, and the part taken by either of the two gentlemen. The President greeted Mr. Breckinridge very kindly and referred to the last time they met, which was when Grant was slightly wounded in one of the Mexican engagements. They called up old memories and old friends, and trace the latter into after life. There is but a years difference in the ages of the two gentlemen, Gen. Grant being 52 and Gen. Breckinridge 51. The latter took his leave in abont an hour, receiving an invitation to call again.

THE PAIN-KILLER manufactured by PERRY DAVIS & SON has won for itself a reputation unsurpassed in medical preperrations. The university of the demand for the Pain-Killer is a novel, interesting, and surpriiing feature in the history of this medicine. The Pain-Killer is now regularly sold in large and steadily increasing quantities, not only to general agents in every state and Territory of The Union, and every province in British America, but to Buenos Ayres, Brazile, Uragray, Perue, Chili, and other South American States, to the Sandwich Islands, to Cuba and other West India Islands; to England and Continental Europe; to Mozambique, Madagascar, Zanzibar, and other African lands; to Australia, and Calcutta, Rangoon and other places in India. It has also been sent to China, and we doubt if there is any foreign port or any inland City in Africa or Asia which is frequented by American and European missionaries, travelers, or traders into which the Pain-Killer has not been introduced.

The extent of its usefulness is another great feature of this remarkable medicine. It is not only the best thing ever known, as everybody will confess, for bruises, cuts, burns, &c., but for dysentery or cholera, or any sort of bowel complaint, it is a remedy unsurpassed for efficeinney and rapidity of action. In the grert cities of British India and the West India Islands ace oiher hot climates, it has become the Standard medicine for all such complaints, as wall as dospepsia, liver complaint, and other kindoed disorders. For cougns and colds, canker, asthma and rheumatic difficulties, it has been proved by the most abundant and convinoing trials and testimony, to be an invaluable medicine. The proprietors are in possession of letters from persons of the highest character and respnnribility, testifying in unequivocal terms to the cures effected and the satisfactory results produced, in an endless variety of cases by the use of this great medicine. That the Pain Killer is deserving of all its proprsetors claim for it is amply proved by the unparalled popularity it has attaided. It is a sure and effective remedy. It is soid in almost every country in the world, and is becoming more and more popular every year. Its healing properties have been fully tested, all over the world add it need only to be known to be prized.

Local and Personal.

The Steamer "Olive" left this morning on an excursion to Washington, N. C.

Our thanks are due our respected townsman NATHAN OVERMAN Esq. for a sample of second crop Raspberries grown in his garden this season.

Our former townsman J. P. GRANDY, is about to begin business again in this city. He will occupy the stand of C. B. BROTHERS at the Canal Bridge.

Mr. THOMAS BROTHERS has been employed by the City Commissioners to make certain repairs and improvements that have been long needed. He is performing his duty so well that we cannot fail to notice them. We call especial attention to the job he has just finished at the southern terminus of Road Street.

We had the pleasure, since our last issue, of another visit from our friend E. LARKINS, of Wilmington, Del. He is a prominent citizen of that enterprizing city and his attention is seriously directed toward settling and embarking in business among us, and especially so since there is such a fair prospect of a Railroad. He, like thousands of others, can't go where there is no hope of any railroad.

To publish the letters received during the past week, congratulating us upon the result of the recent contests, would only tend to add to the mortification of the defeated, and as we have no desire our correspondents will please excuse us. We thank them, nevertheless, for these letters of endorsement for it is always gratifying to us to know that in the performance of what we believe to be our duty we are sustained.

Our old friend FRANCIS LIGHTFOOT of Philadelphia, has again "pitched his tent" at Jamesville, this State. He writes us saying:

"My efforts in behalf of the Atlantic [illegible] Railroad have been productive of good effects. We are agitating the extension of the road from Jamesville. It has laid upwards of 10 miles South of Jamesville and two Locomotives are [illegible] We want to reach Washington 20 miles farther. This will form an important addition to your road, and will no doubt shortly be extended to Newberne and Wilmington."

Once upon a time a man desired to punish a vain and puffed up neighbor and prayed that he would "write a book." In time his prayer was answered, and lo! the enemy's plumage was irrevocably damaged. We have known some instances of men enjoying some little reputation for ability and brains ruining it by yielding, at a fatal moment, to the temptation to write a communication for the press over their own signature. Moral: "Little boats should keep near shore."

Inquiries are made by parties in Camden and Currituck why a great and wealthy Company make the building of the contemplated railroad contingent upon a local subscription being made by the several counties? We answer: The original design was to make a direct line from Norfolk to Charleston. This would leave Currituck, Camden, Pasquotank and Perquimans far to the South. Prominent citizens of these counties asked the Company to come this way. The reply was: It will lengthen our distance a number of miles to do so, but if you will subscribe enough to cover a good part of the additional expense we will accommodate you. Isn't this fair? We will have more to say on this subject hereafter.

As our readers expect us to keep them posted on the progress of the Railroad enterprise we can only say that everything appears to be working harmoniously. The County subscriptions of Pasquotank, Perquimans and Chowan were made satisfactory, and there is but little doubt about the private subscriptions in all the counties. The obstacle is Camden county. A majority of her people, we feel confident, are willing for a county subscription to be made. We still hope that the Commissioners will so far yield to the popular wish as to allow a vote on the question. The Railway Company have all their arrangements made to begin work just as soon as the subscriptions are raised. The sooner the work begins the sooner the road will be finished.

One day last week we had a letter from a valued friend from an adjoining county. He had taken some exceptions to our position on the question recently agitating the people, and he was ready to be willing to come and talk the matter over "face to face." He is among the number whose friendship we highly value, and we were pained to learn that, from mistaken premises, he was beginning to lose confidence in our integrity as a journalist. He was frank and candid, as we most earnestly wish all our true friends to be, and it opened the way for us to give him our reasons and facts which he had never known. He left us feeling glad he had called to see us because he now knows that we were actuated by very different motives than he had supposed. We feel sure that he will rebuke those who assail our motives and traduce our character.

The Medical Brief, a Medical and Hygienic Journal published at Wilson, N. C., among other valuable things says: "In making a mustard plaster, use no water whatever, but mix the mustard with the white of an egg, and the result will be a plaster which will "draw" perfectly, but will not produce a blister even upon the skin of an infant, no matter how long it is allowed to remain upon the part."

During the thunder shower on Friday last WM. FOREHAND and wife at Culpepper Lock on the Canal, were killed by lightning. He was lying up stairs on a bed and she was in a room below at work. The children in the house were not hurt. It is a remarkable occurrence, that a single stroke of lightning should kill two persons thus separate, and they man and wife, and do no other injury.

We return our thanks to the business public for our increasing jobbing patronage. Mr. RUTTER, our Foreman, in addition to being a first rate practical Printer, is always prompt and spares no effort to please. The public have learned that he never disappoints them, and as the result their favors are crowded in upon him. He says he won't turn any away, even if he has to work at night to fill their orders.

We have said, and published it repeatedly, that any individual, feeling himself misrepresented in our columns, can always have a respectful hearing through the same channel. This we conceive to be honorable and manly, and never in a single instance have we refused it. It is foolish to get in a passion and say things to be regretted in the future, and more foolish still to go to an opposition organ, and one you heartily despise, in order to give vent to spleen. Such a course always reacts. Be wise and keep cool and you will be much happier.

We always feel like endorsing a faithful public servant, and while the action of the entire Board of Commissioners has been fair, honorable and consistent, we must specially commend the official course of J. S. WILCOX Esq., on the railroad subscription. He was honestly opposed to it and voted against the measure both in the Board and at the ballot box. But when the people endorsed it by a large majority, feeling that he was the people's servant, he gracefully bowed to the popular will and exerted himself to carry it out to the best of his ability. Both the people of the County and the Railroad Company are satisfied with the form of subscription that was, through his efforts, adopted by the Board. The interests of the former are fully protected and the latter is treated with the justice and fairness to which it is entitled.

Another of our old friends has departed to the "bourne from whence no traveler returns"—we mean AARON FULMER, who followed us to this State from Pennsylvania in the Fall of 1869. He died, after a brief illness, at the residence of his son-in-law S. S. FOWLER, Esq., in this city on Monday morning, September 8th; aged 60 years and 4 months. We have known him for years, and we can say that he was a kind and tender-hearted man and we believe that he tried to live a christian life. He was buried by the Masonic Fraternity, of which order he was a member. At the Church a very impressive address was delivered by Rev. Mr. BOOKER in which he paid a beautiful and tender tribute to the character of the deceased. His remains now quietly repose in the Cemetery, by the side of his wife, who preceeded him to the spirit land about three years ago.

We understand that it is circulated that the Commissioners of Perquimans county ordered us to publish 1000 tickets for and 1000 tickets against the railroad; that we printed and sent 2000 for only, and sent a bill for the same, insinuating that we made a charge for work we did not do. Now the record and the facts will prove each one of the above statements to be incorrect. The following is a copy of the order sent us:

HERTFORD, N. C.,
July 29, 1873.

Dr. P. John:
You will please furnish for the county of Perquimans the following tickets, viz:

1500	"For Railroad"
1000	"Against Railroad"
1000	"For School Tax"
1000	"Against School Tax."

Also send 1000 for each of the Constitutional Amendments. Send as early as convenient with bill.

Respectfully yours,
U. W. SPEIGHT.

We filled the order (excepting the tickets against the railroad) and forwarded the same, with a letter stating that we could not "furnish ammunition for the enemy." We believed that the defeat of the measure would be a calamity and we could not give any aid, directly or indirectly, (whether right or wrong this was our feeling at the time) in that direction. With that letter we inclosed a bill charging only for the actual work done. Our rates are $1,50 for the first thousand and 50 cents for each additional thousand or fractional part thereof. For the railroad tickets we charged just $2,00. We care nothing about vituperative abuse, for that, sooner or later, always reacts on their authors, but we do not like the facts to be perverted or misstated. Treat us with fairness gentlemen!

We see that PROCTER & GAMBLE'S EXTRA OLIVE SOAP is becoming very popular in our city, its quality we know is superior, and being nicely perfumed we are not surprised that consumers prefer it and that it has a large sale.

Horse and Cattle Powders.

This preparation, long and favorably known, will thoroughly re-invigorate broken down and low-spirited horses, by strengthening and cleansing the stomach and intestines.

It is a sure preventive of all diseases incident to this animal, such as LUNG FEVER, GLANDERS, YELLOW WATER, HEAVES, COUGHS, DISTEMPER, FEVERS, FOUNDER, LOSS OF APPETITE AND VITAL ENERGY, &c. Its use improves the wind, increases the appetite—gives a smooth and glossy skin—and transforms the miserable skeleton into a fine-looking and spirited horse.

To keepers of Cows this preparation is invaluable. It is a sure preventive against Rinderpest, Hollow Horn, etc. It has been proven by actual experiment to increase the quantity of milk and cream twenty per cent. and make the butter firm and sweet. In fattening cattle, it gives them an appetite, loosens their hide, and makes them thrive much faster.

In all diseases of Swine, such as Coughs, Ulcers in the Lungs, Liver, &c., this article acts as a specific. By putting from one-half a paper to a paper in a barrel of swill the above diseases will be eradicated or entirely prevented. If given in time, a certain preventive and cure for the Hog Cholera.

What Farmers ought to teach their Children.

One of the great weaknesses of human nature is to make material welfare the all-absorbing thought and aim of life to the detriment of the higher callings for which man has been placed in this world. Day and night he studies "how to make money," and, if a compensation has been obtained, "how to make more." Of course, young men should aim at an independence, acquire business habits, be industrious and persevering. By these acquirements they will be fairly placed on the road to prosperity and [illegible] ample time to improve their mind, making it susceptible to the enjoyment of the pleasures which are derived from such culture. Farmers should make their boys understand this. Money is not the thing to live for; it is only desirable so far as it is required to enjoy life intelligently, usefully and happily. That is the purpose, nothing else. To cultivate such tastes, fathers should provide their sons with ample, interesting and instructive reading matter. If the taste for has once been awakened, the future culture of mind and tastes will no more be a labor, but a pleasure. Thus a multitude of our best and most prominent men have, by self-instruction, gained the high positions they have held among their fellow-citizens. The more we read and study, the more the conviction is forced upon us that our knowledge is inferior, and that we have to learn much more. In fact, the longer we live the more pointedly is this being impressed upon our mind.

Light Harness.

Farm-work, during the hot summer months, requires only the lightest harness. In the cities the harness worn by street railroad horses is as scant as is consistent with the work they have to perform. No breeching is used, and hipstraps are dispensed with. Teams may often be seen in the hot days of July and August, ploughing in the same harness they wore during the winter. This is unnecessary; nay, sometimes it amounts to positive cruelty. Remove every superfluous strap, take away the back-strap and crupper band, and let the air circulate freely around the body. At night, when the work is over, wash the sweat and dust from the legs and thighs of the horse; a dash of water on the flanks would be grateful to him. Let his stable be airy and clean, with a bed of clean straw. Kindness to these serviceable animals is the truest economy. Besides, we feel far better when our horses are made comfortable. The sensation is akin to that derived from doing a benevolent action. A sensitive man cannot see a horse sweating under and galled by a heavy harness during the intense heat of a summer's day, without sympathy and pity, nor can he retire to rest with an easy conscience, knowing that his faithful servants in the stable are not properly cared for.

Specialities in Farming.

General farming or mixed husbandry in more than nine cases out of ten will be found to be better than exclusive attention to any one specialty. The owners of cranberry marshes cannot be general farmers; those who have no land fit for tillage cannot grow grain, but the general rule holds good. The reasons are many—too many to discuss in full. The general system enables the farmer to more economically make use of his own or hired labor—work can better be distributed throughout the year. It is, as a rule, better adapted to retaining or increasing the fertility of the soil, and it secures the farmer from the evils following the fluctuation in price in all specialties. With a good crop of tobacco or hops selling at fifty cents a pound, the specialty farmer can look with undisguised pity on his plodding neighbor; but if one of these crops be his sole dependence and sell at three cents a pound, the plodding neighbor may be asked for the loan of enough money to buy the necessaries of life for a year. It seems paradoxical but we cannot always afford to cultivate those crops alone which seem to pay the best.—Western Farmer.

How to Water Horses.

One writer says, Never water immediately before or after feeding. I say that if a horse is thirsty, always give him drink; and he will thank you for it. I have often seen horses put in the stable at noon for an hour or two, and not eat a pound of hay or grain, but looking wistfully for water; and then their careful owner, who would not let them have water when warm, will come and give them enough to kill, and drive the remainder of the day on two buckets of water and no feed. Ten chances to one his horse gives out with him, or gets sick before night. Now, I say, give the horse water if he is ever so warm—give him a swallow, rinse out his mouth and nostrils, give him a bite of hay; in a short time a little more water, but not too much. If he is watered several times, a little at a time, until he is satisfied, he will not drink more than half what he would if you let him gulp it down all at once.—Cor. Tribune.

Pennsylvania farmer give the results of feeding corn, in the ear, and ground, and cooked. Three hogs, in good order, were fed 210 pounds of corn in the ear one week with a gain of 32 pounds. The same amount of corn was shelled and ground, the toll taken out, and the remainder fed dry, plenty of water was given, and the gain was only 28 pounds. The same amount of corn in the ear was fed the next week, and the gain was 31 pounds. Then, the same amount of meal that was fed the second week was cooked into thick mush and fed cold, and the gain in the seven days was 41 pounds. They were a cross of the China and Chester White, and they sold in town for 11 cents a ponnd. It is clear, therefore, that cooked meal will produce most pork.

One of our agents writes that he has prevented his horse from being annoyed by all kinds of flies, by the use of a mixture of one third of fish oil and two thirds of kerosene oil. This is sprinkled on his horse brush, which is passed over the horse. We hope horse owners will try it.

Do you let your horse stand at the side of the street for hours together in the hot sun, without shade or water? If so, try it yourself.

California authorities are again paying a bounty for squirrels. For the past five years the lives of countless thousands of these little creatures have been paid for in this way, and yet they are so numerous as to be considered a pest.

A baby not yet three years old in Salem Indiana, has a mustache and side whiskers. His mother thinks that it is the effect of his eating an Indian turnip before he was a year old. Year olds will take notice, accordingly.

BANKRUPTCY.

THE FIFTY PER CENT. CLAUSE.

As there seems to be a misunderstanding in regard to the effect of the provision of the Bankrupt Act, commonly called the 50 per cent. clause, we publish the following extracts from the Act:

The second clause of the thirty-third section as amended by the Act of July 27, 1868, provides "that no discharge shall be granted to a debtor whose assets shall not be equal to fifty per centum of the claims proved against his estate upon which he shall be liable as the principal debtor, unless the assent of writing of a majority in number and value of his creditors to whom he shall have become liable as principal debtor, and who shall have proved their claims, filed in the case at or before the time of hearing of the application for discharge.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled—that the provision of the second clause of the thirty-third section of said act as amended by the first section of an act in amendment thereof, approved July 27th, 1868, shall not apply to those debts from which the bankrupt seeks a discharge which were contracted prior to January 1st, 1869.

The true meaning is not that a bankrupt must be able to pay fifty per cent of all his debts, before he can obtain a discharge, as many believe; but that his estate, in the hands of his assignee, at the time of the discharge, must be equal, to fifty per cent. of the amount of the debts.

1. That he owes as principal;
2. That have been proved against his estate in bankruptcy; and
3. That he has contracted since the 31st day of December, 1868.

Or, if a majority in number and value of those who have proved their debts, to whom the bankrupt is indebted as principal, on debts contracted subsequent to Dec., 31, 1868, consent in writing to the discharge—such bankrupt may be discharged forever from all his debts.

If a debtor, owing three thousand dollars as principal, twenty-five hundred of which indebtedness was contracted prior to January 1, 1869, and five hundred subsequent to that time, files his petition in bankruptcy, and all his creditors prove against him, and there are no assets in the hands of the assignee, the petitioner will be entitled to a discharge; but it will be a bar only to the debts contracted prior to January 1, 1869.—If no creditors prove, the discharge will be good against all debts, whether contracted before or after January 1, 1869.

The practical effect in bankruptcy-cases generally is, that creditors fail to prove their debts, finding it ordinarily unprofitable. They have had, in a large majority of instances, heretofore the trouble and expense of making proofs, without receiving any return. The 50 per cent. bngbear, therefore when viewed in the light of the law and common-sense, disappears.

EXEMPTIONS IN BANKRUPTCY.

The exemptions under the 14th section of the Bankrupt Act are as follows:

1. Household and Kitchen furniture to an amount not exceeding $500,00
2. Wearing apparel of Bankrupt and family.
3. Uniform, &c., if he has been a soldier in the United States Army.
4. Personal property of the value of $500.00 to be selected by the Bankrupt.
5. A Homestead and the dwelling and buildings used therewith, not exceeding in value the sum of $1000,.00; or in lieu thereof, any lot in any city, town or village not exceeding in value the sum of $1000.000.
6. The reversionary interest in the Homestead lands.

In laying off the Exemptions in some Districts, the Assignees are ordered to accept, and abide by, any assignment of a homestead which has been made by a Sheriff under the State laws; or which has been assigned upon the application of a debtor in accordance with the laws of North Carolina. Where no such assignment of homestead has been made, the assignee will proceed to set apart such homestead, and make the other exemptions according to the rules of the bankrupt Court.

The report of such exemptions when made by the assignee can be excepted to by the bankrupt or by any creditor, within twenty days after the allotment of such exempt property.

EFFECT OF THE DISCHARGE IN BANKRUPTCY UPON JUDGMENT.

It is the opinion of many of our best lawyers that the discharge in bankruptcy, discharges judgment debts existing against the bankrupt at the time of filing his petition, and that therefore the liens existing by virtue of such judgments, upon homesteads are wiped out, and cannot afterwards be enforced. In fine, that the practical effect of the discharge, is to leave a man, whose homestead was encumbered by judgments, free from all his debts, of every nature, and the owner in fee simple of such homestead.

Again many lawyers, equally prominent in the profession, are of opinion that such will not be the effect of the discharge. That the homestead, will still be liable under the judgments and that when it determines under our State laws, the judgment creditor may enforce his lien aud collect his debts.

To place this matter beyound doubt, the following rule has been adopted for the benefit of petitioners who are not willing to run any risk.

That the petitioning debtor may file his petition in the District Court, addressed to Hon. Geo. W. Brooks, asking that the judgment creditor, or creditors, show cause why the liens existing in pursuance of their judgments should not be adjusted by said court, and their present value ascertain and fixed, and the amount when so ascertained, to be made the true value of such lien or liens by the decree or judgment of said District Court, in bankruptcy.

The right to adjust such liens, is exercised in pursuance of Sec. 1. of the Bankrupt Act.

FILING PETITIONS AND SCHEDULES.

Petitions and Schedules must be in duplicate. Petitioner should sign each sheet, except oath to schedules. It is not necessary to file sheets, of schedules that are not used. All papers in bankruptcy must be sworn to before a Register in Bankruptcy, U. S. Commissioner, or Clerk of the court.

The following deposit to secure costs is required at time of filing Petition. Register $50, Clerk $20, Messenger $5. Bankruptcy blanks can be had of M. B. Culpepper, Elizabeth City, prepared in sets for Two Dollars per set.

The original papers in all such cases should be sent to T. W. Costen, Register, Elizabeth City, N. C.
